Jesus lived a quiet, simple life, apparently working as a carpenter. He stayed in His hometown village of Nazareth, rather than move to Jerusalem and make a name for Himself. Later, once His ministry began and His miracles guaranteed He could not be hidden, still He refused to publicly reveal that He was Israel's Messiah and warned His disciples not to make Him known.

A quiet life earns respect. Because there are more actions speaking louder than words. A quiet life earns respect because the people around you, find you civilised, cultured, educated and true Christian in how you are sensitive to issues. A quiet life doesn ' t irritate people, therefore it is admirable and respected.

And when Paul speaks here of a quiet life, he is not advocating quietism—the view that Christians would never speak truth to power or exercise their civic responsibility. He ' s referring to a rootedness, a quietness that does not seek the spotlight or succumb to fruitless anxiety, but works hard at resting in the sovereign goodness of God.
